DiSalle, McElroy Stage Finale in Debate Series

Ohio Voters To Decide Between 2 Candidates In Tuesday's Election

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Gov. Michael V. DiSalle and Atty. Gen. Mark McElroy got in some more verbal blows in their final scheduled debate before Tuesday's primary election. Then voters will decide the Democratic gubernatorial nominee.

The offstage was Friday night's banquet in Cleveland of Sigma Delta Chi, journalism society. Finance, taxes and the state's industrial development were the issues the two tangled over.

The governor blamed Ohio's present cash shortage on the Republican majority in the last legislature, charging it "had made a commitment on cutting state expenditures."

But McElroy blamed the cash shortage on DiSalle. "He ran away from the fray," the attorney general asserted. "He abdicated to the Republicans."

McElroy told the journalists: "To some politicians, the answer to our problems is higher taxes merely because they are unpopular."

"Those are both dead ends. The path which leads to a long and open road to prosperity is industrial and economic development. Another $1.5 billion in manufacturing and we don't need taxes. . . . A few billion in space contracts would inhibit the need to raise taxes."

To McElroy's oft-repeated claim that DiSalle was "suggesting more taxes," the governor replied:

"I am committed against a state income tax. I am against the state getting into real estate taxes. The state is committed to stay in the excise tax field."

DiSalle also replied to the McElroy contention that Ohio's industrial stature is slipping, throwing in a new statistic which he felt was the perfect squelch.

"I just got the Census Bureau figures for the end of 1959 from Washington today," DiSalle said with obvious delight. "It shows Ohio has grown back into second place." The governor added:

"We increased from $11,413,000 to $13,851,000,000 in value added by manufacturers, from 1958 to 1959. We passed California and Illinois and we gained three-quarters of a billion on New York, which is first."

But McElroy wasn't convinced. Right after DiSalle quoted those statistics, the attorney general insisted Ohio ranks fourth or fifth in industrial development among the states.

Meanwhile, a trio of Democratic candidates were refused permission to speak at Cleveland ward meetings.

Alan F. Reeves, candidate for congressman-at-large, said he was blocked from speaking and was escorted out of a Ward 29 rally by a sergeant-at-arms. Reeves is a Cleveland and member of the 29 Club but is not endorsed by the Cuyahoga County organization.

LeRoy G. Schell of Steubenville, candidate for attorney general, and Lewis N. Truman of Springfield, candidate for secretary of state, said they were tossed out of the 29th Ward meeting and also a meeting of the 20th Ward.

"We were told we were not on the endorsed list," Schell said.

Mine Union Labeled As Red-Infiltrated

WASHINGTON (AP)—A government board says the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers is Communist-infiltrated and therefore cannot represent employees under the National Labor Relations Act. Union officials denied the finding and said they would file an immediate appeal.

The decision was announced Friday by the Subversive Activities Control Board. In a 97-page report, it backed the findings of board member Francis Cherry, who sat as an examiner, that the union was heavily laced with Communists or Communist sympathizers.

'TRADE OR FADE' — President Kennedy tells a huge crowd in New Orleans that his tariff-cutting program is a cornerstone of an "Atlantic partnership" as a bulwark against Communism. He said the nation must "trade or fade." Later, the President flew to Eglin Air Force Base in Florida to witness a demonstration of air firepower.

President Sees Air Power, Feels 'a Good Deal Happier'

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — President Kennedy, a good deal happier with America's air power, settled today into a weekend of quiet leisure by the sea.

The Palm Beach White House said the President planned nothing more exacting than a cruise, weather permitting, on the yacht Honey Fitz. Mrs. Kennedy was in Middleburg, Va.

5 Europeans Said Kidnaped By Moslems

ORAN, Algeria (AP)—French authorities disclosed today five Europeans have disappeared from strife-torn Oran in the last few days and claimed some had been kidnaped by Moslems.

New violence was reported in both Algiers and Oran, as security forces pressed their house-to-house search for terrorists.

Secret army gunmen killed two Moslems and wounded one in Algiers, while four Moslem youths were shot to death in Oran's Jewish quarter.

Witnesses said the Moslems had been speeding through the Jewish quarter firing at passersby. The car crashed into a parked auto and the driver of the Moslems' car was killed.

The four passengers fled down narrow streets. But they were quickly slain by gunmen from the Jewish quarter.

Earlier, the body of a Moslem, killed by gunfire, had been found in an area between Moslem and Jewish quarters. Later two Jews were wounded by rifle shots.

In other terrorist action, an explosion and fire heavily damaged a customs warehouse.

Medics Seek Boycott of Medicare Plan

POINT PLEASANT, N.J. (AP) — Leaders of a movement to get doctors to refuse to treat patients participating in the proposed federal medical care plan for the aged pressed for more signatures today.

More than 200 New Jersey doctors have signed such a declaration. They evoked an outburst of criticism and an announcement that a bill would be introduced in the New Jersey Legislature on Monday making it a crime for a doctor to refuse to treat any patient.

The doctors' resolution, refusing to accept provisions of a measure now before Congress that would tie medical care for the aged to Social Security, has been circulated in at least five New Jersey hospitals.

The New Jersey AFL-CIO said Assemblyman John J. Kijowski, D-Hudson, would introduce a bill in the legislature Monday that would subject a doctor to a $100 fine and a three-month jail term or both for rejecting a patient "solely because of the prospective or intended method of payment." The state board of medical examiners would be empowered to revoke the license of any doctor found guilty of refusing treatment.

The National Council of Senior Citizens, with headquarters in Washington, appealed to the American Medical Association to disassociate itself from the group of New Jersey doctors.

In Honolulu, Dr. Leonard W. Larson, president of the AMA, said he would neither condone nor disapprove the movement.

It was quite a change from a busy Friday that embraced a swing through the South for a major foreign trade speech in New Orleans and a look at a thunderous demonstration of Air Force might at Eglin Air Force Base in northwest Florida.

In the speech on foreign economic policy, Kennedy said that America must "trade or fade." He proposed that it trade for its own sake and that of the free world, that it join in a trillion-dollar "Atlantic partnership" to open up vast markets.

The President flew east to Eglin, and in a word of thanks and farewell after a four-hour visit, he told a crowd on the base:

"I don't think anyone could have watched the flying that we have seen today and the commitment to this country demonstrated by those who manned these airplanes and put in time without going back home a good deal happier."

The Air Force provided a pair of rocking chairs from which Kennedy watched two phases of its big show.

He also drove along a lineup of nearly three dozen different types of planes. From California, where they set new records for speed, height, and the Air Force had brought in its famed X-15 and pilot Robert White. And in a hangar that was out of bounds for nearly everyone else it had on display for the President a U2 plane of the type used by Francis Gary Powers when he was downed in an espionage flight over Russia.

From a grandstand, Kennedy pushed a button that sent eight, giant B52 bombers, with 64 engines screaming, into a scramble that put them into the air 15 seconds apart. Six Voodoo interceptors followed at five second intervals, with loud blasts from their afterburners.

It was a mock alert that would have been the real thing at 88 air bases around the world in event of actual war.

Franco Clamps Lid On 3 Provinces

MADRID, Spain (AP)—Generalissimo Francisco Franco proclaimed today a state of emergency in three key provinces in Spain's industrial north to try to halt a spreading wave of strikes.

Franco's decree, to remain in effect at least three months, was aimed mainly at the Asturias coal mines, where 20,000 miners struck for higher pay a month ago leaving at least another 20,000 without work.

Strikes are technically outlawed in Spain.

Franco's action, described by some authorities here as in effect martial law, was ordered in the provinces of Asturias, Vizcaya and Guipuzua, main industrial states on Spain's north coast.

Ohioan Is Named To Top Space Post

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Hamilton, Ohio, native has been named director of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Office of Advanced Research and Technology. He is Dr. Raymond L. Bisplinghoff, professor of aeronautical engineering at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Bisplinghoff formerly was with the Aeronca Aircraft Corp. of Middletown; Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Dayton, and the aeronautical engineering department of the University of Cincinnati.

4th Nuclear Test Explosion Fired by U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has fired the fourth nuclear burst of its Pacific series and tuned its antennas for the expected start of more Soviet tests. Administration officials said a new Soviet round of nuclear blasts could come at almost any minute.

These officials said U.S. detection stations have been alerted to watch for the tests, which Soviet Premier Khrushchev said Russia would set off if the United States resumed testing in the atmosphere.

The fourth shot in the U.S. series was announced Friday by the Atomic Energy Commission and the Defense Department. The brief statement merely said this of the device:

It was dropped from a plane near Christmas Island, as were the other three in the series, which began April 25. It was in the intermediate yield range of 100,000 to 500,000 tons of TNT, like the first and second shot—the third explosion was in the million-ton range—and it took place at 2 p.m. EST.

The U.S. Information Agency reports that so far reaction abroad to the U.S. tests could be summed up as "generally mild with showers and occasional thunderstorms."

Based on a survey of foreign press comment, the USIA said that "beyond the general fear hazard, the most overriding fear was the specter of a never-ending nuclear arms race leading to a world disaster."

"The most critical comments came from Africa, Syria, Iraq, India, and the United Arab Republic," the statement said. "Strong moral support for the U.S. action came in comment from Western Europe, Latin America, the CENTO-NATO countries of the Near and Middle East, Israel, Thailand, Taiwan, the Philippines and South Korea. The Japanese press—in marked contrast to current leftist-led demonstrations—continued to take a balanced approach to the question of U.S. tests."

Boy Scout, 15, Dies Trying To Rescue Lad

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Nine-year-old Tommy Piper slipped into the Scioto River near downtown Columbus Friday night and a 15-year-old boy fishing nearby jumped in to pull him out. Both drowned.

The older boy, Leonard Logan, had just been awarded a Boy Scout merit badge for swimming, his family said later.

Leonard's brother, Larry, 17, said he tried to rescue the other boys but couldn't get to them in time. "My brother went down and came up once but I couldn't get to him before he went down again," Larry said.

Larry also said another of the half-dozen or so youngsters fishing or playing along the sloping concrete retaining wall ran across the street to a gasoline station to summon help.

According to Larry, an attendant told the boy, Ernest Jude, 14, "Let them drown."

While firemen dragged the river for Leonard's body, Ernest's father, Warren Jude, slugged the gas station attendant, who then was taken to a hospital for treatment of a cut over his left eye. The attendant told police he would file assault and battery charges against Jude in the morning.

Defiance Given Scare

DEFIANCE, Ohio (AP) — Authorities evacuated 4,200 public and parochial school children from nine schools here Friday when an anonymous telephone call said "a bomb is set to go in a school at 1:30." No bomb was found.

2 Big U.S. Cities Disrupted By Absence of Newspapers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A big city without its newspapers is a city disrupted; the daily routine of its people upset; social dates forgotten; store sales depressed; ball games missed.

Into the void spills an uneven mixture of telephone calls, out-of-town newspapers, perhaps a brand new one, expanded radio and television newscasts.

"Business is so good, if I had tissue paper with ink on it I could even sell that," said a newsdealer in Minneapolis, which has been without its regular newspapers since April 12.

In Detroit, where a similar strike situation has existed the same length of time, a cook griped he couldn't get Al Kaline's batting average and a salesman, Robert Maloney, complained, "I miss the comics."

The generally expanding economy has eased the plight of some merchants. But many begin to worry about the damage of a prolonged news drought.

Here are reports from the two cities:

Detroit—city of 1,670,000 population and a huge metropolitan area—misses its two daily newspapers.

Because of a series of labor disputes neither the Detroit News nor the Detroit Free Press has published a regular edition since April 12.

The Free Press—morning—and the News—afternoon—have an aggregate daily circulation of 1,273,000 and more than 1½ million on Sunday.

Readers have lacked their accustomed sources of information on events such as President Kennedy's fight with the steel industry, the U.S. resumption of nuclear testing and the fortunes of the Detroit Tigers baseball team.

Advertisers lost an important channel to buyers of their products.

A number of attempts have been made to fill at least part of the communications gap.

Radio and television stations have expanded newscasts. Suburban weekly papers have broadened their advertising space.

The newly born Detroit World, which began as a weekly newspaper, turned to daily publication. Its circulation has doubled, from 50,000 to 100,000.

The World is a tabloid of about 20 pages daily, staffed mostly by former employees of the defunct Detroit Times. The News bought and closed the Times in 1960.

On the Detroit streets, newsstand sales of out-of-town papers have bulged. Independent stands have set their own prices.

Minneapolis—When people in a big city suddenly find themselves without a daily newspaper, there's bound to be a lot of changes in their way of living. Not just the reading public. The buying public, too.

This city of about half a million persons has been without its two daily newspapers and Sunday editions since a strike of Teamsters truck drivers halted publication of the Minneapolis Star and Tribune April 12.

Since then, mailers and typographers unions have joined in the walkout and other unions have observed the picket lines, which ground Star and Tribune presses to a halt for the first time.

Most businesses that depend mainly on newspaper advertising for getting their message to the public say they've suffered.

The movie theaters, for example admit that business is down sharply—as much as 30 to 40 per cent. Real estate men concede that a husband and wife aren't as apt to come around looking at houses if they don't have a long list of classified ads to mull over. News-hungry readers buy all newspapers available. The St. Paul Pioneer Press and Dispatch from across the Mississippi River are snapped up quickly. Piles of other out-of-town papers from Milwaukee, Chicago or New York disappear fast.

Glenn Stages Home Cookout With Titov Donning Apron

WASHINGTON (AP)—Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. almost burned the steaks. Cosmonaut Gherman Titov wound up in apron. But everyone seemed to have a wonderful time.

The affair: A spur-of-the-moment cookout at Glenn's modern brick home in nearby Arlington, Va., Friday night.

In the hurry to get the frozen steaks cooked, someone poured on too much charcoal. A late-arriving guest said it looked like Glenn's garage was going up in flames. "Daddy cooked the steak and it almost got burned up," said Glenn's 14-year-old daughter, Carolyn. "But they (Titov and his wife Tamara) seemed to like it. We had a very enjoyable evening."

Glenn said later that everyone put on aprons and pitched in to get the dinner—steak, peas, potato chips, salad and ice cream—on the table.

Maj. and Mrs. Titov spent about an hour and a quarter at the Glenns'. Then the two spacemen and their wives hurried to a television studio where Titov and Glenn taped a recorded interview in which Glenn revealed that the next American to journey in space will tow a balloon behind his capsule to measure the drag in the sky above the earth's atmosphere.

The interview was taped for NBC's "The Nation's Future" Sunday night. The Glenns had invited the Titovs to dinner earlier, but plans were rather indefinite until Titov decided about 6 p.m. to take them up on it, a National Aeronautics and Space Administration official said.

At the time, the Glenns were

Venezuelan Chief Moves To End Revolt

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Government troops rolled over light resistance to the edge of Carupano today under orders to crush rebellious marines and military policemen. Loyal warplanes bombed and strafed the coastal city.

President Romulo Betancourt accused the rebels of seeking to set up a Castro-type Communist regime in Venezuela and gave them an ultimatum to surrender by dawn or be destroyed. Two government destroyers steamed into the port of Carupano, 300 miles east of Caracas.

Betancourt predicted the uprising would be quickly crushed and claimed his government was in complete control of the rest of the country. Loyalist troops moved on Carupano from three directions after the city's 400-man marine garrison and 50 military policemen rebelled and demanded the Betancourt government quit. The rebels reportedly passed out arms to Communist and leftist supporters. Radio reports from cities near Carupano asserted the rebels attempted to spread the revolt by forcing 3,000 townspeople to demonstrate against the government.

Loyalist marines were airlifted from Caracas to Cumana, about 60 miles west of Carupano, and marched eastward along the coast road. Army units from Ciudad Bolivar and Maturin moved on the rebels from the south and west.

Lima Is Cool On Jack Fullen

LIMA, Ohio (AP) — A charge that Ohio State University alumni secretary John (Jack) Fullen's popularity in the chapter here has dropped to an all-time low was made by the Allen County president after an annual meeting had to be canceled for lack of support. County alumni unit president Richard Fredericks put all the blame on the poor response on Fullen, who is under fire from some alumni for his alleged influences on the university.

Fredericks called off the dinner meeting after only five persons mailed back reservations. The county has 625 Ohio State Alumni Association members and Fredericks said 60 to 80 usually attend the meetings.

Many of the cards sent out came back with attacks on Fullen and statements that the sender would not attend any association function as long as Fullen is secretary, Fredericks said.

Atomic Mortar Said Headed For Germany

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — The United States agreed today to give its North Atlantic Treaty Organization allies more information on the extent and power of American nuclear stockpiles an official source said.

The U.S. move was disclosed as the NATO allies meeting behind closed doors reportedly adopted a new nuclear policy calling on alliance members to work out guide lines on how and when atomic tactical weapons should be used in event of a Soviet attack.

NATO's foreign and defense ministers had been seeking agreement on a proposed policy for resort to nuclear arms in case of Red attack that would still give President Kennedy the final decision.

The plan was contained in a report read by NATO Secretary-General Dirk U. Stikker.

Sources said Italian and French representatives expressed reservations on Stikker's report, but diplomatically avoided any action that would obstruct implementation of the policy.

As a result — informed sources said—the NATO Permanent Council, which meets in Paris, will handle the information exchange while military representatives of the NATO members work out the guide lines.

Stikker's report provided for such a procedure. After a brief discussion, the ministers agreed to this procedure—in effect adopting the new nuclear policy.

France reportedly has reservations about the nuclear policy because it will not go as far as President Charles de Gaulle would like. It does not change Kennedy's right to veto the use of nuclear weapons, something the French reportedly would like to see changed.

The idea of the guide lines is to work out the conditions under which nuclear tactical weapons might be used in war. These conditions would guide field commanders in determining when to apply to the President of the United States for permission to use such weapons.

A purpose of unified policy on guide lines is to give all NATO members a sense of participating in crucial nuclear decisions. West Germany has especially wanted more say on nuclear matters—even a nuclear strike force under a NATO commander.

But the United States and their members are not prepared for the creation of such a supranational nuclear force, which would in effect put nuclear arms in West German hands.

An atomic mortar for front-line troops is expected to be assigned to U.S. troops in West Germany soon. The Army's Davy Crockett is now in the American forces.

Sources said each of the five U.S. infantry divisions in Germany likely would mount about

U.S. Divorce Data Revealed

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—About one in every 14 American women either was divorced or separated from her husband at the time of the 1960 census, a federal statistician reported today.

The best record for togetherness was on the farm, and the suburbs ranked next.

An analysis of 1960 marital data was made public here by Dr. Paul C. Glick, chief of the social statistics branch of the Census Bureau, in a paper prepared for the annual meeting of the Population Association of America.

Among all women who either were or had been married in 1960, 43 per 1,000 were divorced and 31 per 1,000 were separated. The total marriage disruption ratio for women thus was 74 per 1,000.

PANDSMAN TED LEWIS has voiced regret that he is unable to take part in Pickaway County's Canoe Drive this year. . . .

The native son, a gastroenterologist since April with ulcer troubles, notified Mr. and Mrs. Charles Curlett this week that he will not be able to make an appearance here. . . . However, he has urged his many friends in Circleville and Pickaway County to aid the Cancer Crusade in its effort to go over the top.

According to Ted's secretary, he has cancelled all of his commitments for May and June. This probably means his scheduled June appearance at the Maramor in Columbus will be changed to a later date.

THE OFFICIAL awarding of a contract for construction of Circleville's Storm Sewer District No. 2 project was scheduled for today, according to Service Director Ron Sharratt. . . . Several bids have been received for the job.

Road To Be Closed For Bridge Repairs

The Circleville - Lockbourne Road, County Road No. 28, will be closed beginning Monday for about 10 days, County Engineer Henry T. McCrady announced today.

The road, southwest of Ashville, will be closed due to necessary repairs of the bridge over Walnut Creek. Ashville-bound traffic will be re-routed over Route 23 to South Bloomfield and Route 316 into Ashville.

McCrady said repair work on the bridge floor should be completed within a 10-day period.

Franco's action, described by some authorities here as in effect martial law, was ordered in the provinces of Asturias, Vizcaya and Guipuzua, main industrial states on Spain's north coast.

Ohioan Is Named To Top Space Post

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Hamilton, Ohio, native has been named director of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Office of Advanced Research and Technology. He is Dr. Raymond L. Bisplinghoff, professor of aeronautical engineering at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Bisplinghoff formerly was with the Aeronca Aircraft Corp. of Middletown; Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Dayton, and the aeronautical engineering department of the University of Cincinnati.

4th Nuclear Test Explosion Fired by U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has fired the fourth nuclear burst of its Pacific series and tuned its antennas for the expected start of more Soviet tests.

Administration officials said a new Soviet round of nuclear blasts could come at almost any minute.

These officials said U.S. detection stations have been alerted to watch for the tests, which Soviet Premier Khrushchev said Russia would set off if the United States resumed testing in the atmosphere.

The fourth shot in the U.S. series was announced Friday by the Atomic Energy Commission and the Defense Department. The brief statement merely said this of the device:

It was dropped from a plane near Christmas Island, as were the other three in the series, which began April 25. It was in the intermediate yield range of 100,000 to 500,000 tons of TNT, like the first and second shot—the third explosion was in the million-ton range—and it took place at 2 p.m. EST.

The U.S. Information Agency reports that so far reaction abroad to the U.S. tests could be summed up as "generally mild with showers and occasional thunderstorms."

Based on a survey of foreign press comment, the USIA said that "beyond the general fear hazard, the most overriding fear was the specter of a never-ending nuclear arms race leading to a world disaster."

"The most critical comments came from Africa, Syria, Iraq, India, and the United Arab Republic," the statement said. "Strong moral support for the U.S. action came in comment from Western Europe, Latin America, the CENTO-NATO countries of the Near and Middle East, Israel, Thailand, Taiwan, the Philippines and South Korea. The Japanese press—in marked contrast to current leftist-led demonstrations—continued to take a balanced approach to the question of U.S. tests."

Boy Scout, 15, Dies Trying To Rescue Lad

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Nine-year-old Tommy Piper slipped in to the Scioto River near downtown Columbus Friday night and a 15-year-old boy fishing nearby jumped into pull him out. Both drowned.

The older boy, Leonard Logan, had just been awarded a Boy Scout merit badge for swimming, his family said later.

Leonard's brother, Larry, 17, said he tried to rescue the other boys but couldn't get to them in time. "My brother went down and came up once but I couldn't get to him before he went down again," Larry said.

Larry also said another of the half-dozen or so youngsters fishing or playing along the sloping concrete retainer wall ran across the street to a gasoline station to summon help.

According to Larry, an attendant told the boy, Ernest Jude, 14, "Let them drown."

While firemen dragged the river for Leonard's body, Ernest's father, Warren Jude, slugged the gas station attendant, who then was taken to a hospital to treatment of a cut over his left eye. The attendant told police he would file assault and battery charges against Jude in the morning.

Defiance Given Scare

DEFIANCE, Ohio (AP) — Authorities evacuated 4,200 public and parochial school children from nine schools here Friday when an anonymous telephone call said "a bomb is set to go in a school at 1:30." No bomb was found.

2 Big U.S. Cities Disrupted By Absence of Newspapers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A big city without its newspapers is a city disrupted; the daily routine of its people upset; social dates forgotten; store sales depressed; ball games missed.

Into the void spills an uneven mixture of telephone calls, out-of-town newspapers, perhaps a brand new one, expanded radio and television newscasts.

"Business is so good, if I had tissue paper with ink on it I could even sell that," said a newsdealer in Minneapolis, which has been without its regular newspapers since April 12.

In Detroit, where a similar strike situation has existed the same length of time, a cook griped he couldn't get Al Kaline's batting average and a salesman, Robert Maloney, complained, "I miss the comics."

The generally expanding economy has eased the plight of some merchants. But many begin to worry about the damage of a prolonged news drought.

Here are reports from the two cities:

Detroit—city of 1,670,000 population and a huge metropolitan area—misses its two daily newspapers.

Because of a series of labor disputes neither the Detroit News nor the Detroit Free Press has published a regular edition since April 12.

The Free Press—morning—and the News—afternoon—have an aggregate daily circulation of 1,273,000 and more than 1½ million on Sunday.

Readers have lacked their accustomed sources of information on events such as President Kennedy's fight with the steel industry, the U.S. resumption of nuclear testing and the fortunes of the Detroit Tigers baseball team.

Advertisers lost an important channel to buyers of their products.

A number of attempts have been made to fill at least part of the communications gap.

Radio and television stations have expanded newscasts. Suburban weekly papers have broadened their advertising space.

The newly born Detroit World, which began as a weekly newspaper, turned to daily publication. Its circulation has doubled, from 50,000 to 100,000.

The World is a tabloid of about 20 pages daily, staffed mostly by former employees of the defunct Detroit Times. The News bought and closed the Times in 1960.

On the Detroit streets, newsstand sales of out-of-town papers have bulged. Independent stands have set their own prices.

Minneapolis—When people in a big city suddenly find themselves without a daily newspaper, there's bound to be a lot of changes in their way of living. Not just the reading public. The buying public, too.

This city of about half a million persons has been without its two daily newspapers and Sunday editions since a strike of Team-

Lima Is Cool On Jack Fullen

LIMA, Ohio (AP) — A charge that Ohio State University alumni secretary John (Jack) Fullen's popularity in the chapter here has dropped to an all-time low was made by the Allen County president after an annual meeting had to be canceled for lack of support.

County alumni unit president Richard Fredericks put all the blame on the poor response on Fullen, who is under fire from some alumni for his alleged influences on the university.

Fredericks called off the dinner meeting after only five persons mailed back reservations. The county has 625 Ohio State Alumni Association members and Fredericks said 60 to 80 usually attend the meetings.

Many of the cards sent out came back with attacks on Fullen and statements that the sender would not attend any association function as long as Fullen is secretary, Fredericks said.

sters truck drivers halted publication of the Minneapolis Star and Tribune April 12.

Since then, mailers and typographers unions have joined in the walkout and other unions have observed the picket lines, which ground Star and Tribune presses to a halt for the first time.

Most businesses that depend mainly on newspaper advertising for getting their message to the public say they've suffered.

The movie theaters, for example admit that business is down sharply—as much as 30 to 40 percent. Real estate men concede that a husband and wife aren't as apt to come around looking at houses if they don't have a long list of classified ads to mull over.

News-hungry readers buy all newspapers available. The St. Paul Pioneer Press and Dispatch from across the Mississippi River are snatched up quickly. Piles of other out-of-town papers from Milwaukee, Chicago or New York disappear fast.

Glenn Stages Home Cookout With Titov Donning Apron

WASHINGTON (AP)—Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. almost burned the steaks. Cosmonaut Gherman Titov wound up in apron. But everyone seemed to have a wonderful time.

The affair: A spur-of-the-moment cookout at Glenn's modern brick home in nearby Arlington, Va., Friday night.

In the hurry to get the frozen steaks cooked, someone poured on too much charcoal. A late-arriving guest said it looked like Glenn's garage was going up in flames.

"Daddy cooked the steak and it almost got burned up," said Glenn's 14-year-old daughter, Carolyn. "But they (Titov and his wife Tamara) seemed to like it. We had a very enjoyable evening."

Glenn said later that everyone put on aprons and pitched in to get the dinner—steak, peas, potato chips, salad and ice cream—on the table.

Maj. and Mrs. Titov spent about an hour and a quarter at the Glenns'. Then the two spacemen and their wives hurried to a television studio where Titov and Glenn taped a recorded interview in which Glenn revealed that the next American to journey in space will tow a balloon behind his capsule to measure the drag in the sky above the earth's atmosphere.

The interview was taped for NBC's "The Nation's Future" Sunday night.

The Glenns had invited the Titovs to dinner earlier, but plans were rather indefinite until Titov decided about 6 p.m. to take them up on it, a National Aeronautics and Space Administration official said.

At the time, the Glenns were

Venezuelan Chief Moves To End Revolt

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Government troops rolled over light resistance to the edge of Carupano today under orders to crush rebellious marines and military policemen. Loyal warplanes bombed and strafed the coastal city.

President Romulo Betancourt accused the rebels of seeking to set up a Castro-type Communist regime in Venezuela and gave them an ultimatum to surrender by dawn or be destroyed. Two government destroyers steamed into the port of Carupano, 300 miles east of Caracas.

Betancourt predicted the uprising would be quickly crushed and claimed his government was in complete control of the rest of the country.

Loyalist troops moved on Carupano from three directions after the city's 400-man marine garrison and 50 military policemen rebelled and demanded the Betancourt government quit. The rebels reportedly passed out arms to Communist and leftist supporters.

Radio reports from cities near Carupano asserted the rebels attempted to spread the revolt by forcing 3,000 townspeople to demonstrate against the government.

Loyalist marines were airlifted from Caracas to Cumana, about 60 miles west of Carupano, and marched eastward along the coast road. Army units from Ciudad Bolivar and Maturin moved on the rebels from the south and west.

Atomic Mortar Said Headed For Germany

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — The United States agreed today to give its North Atlantic Treaty Organization allies more information on the extent and power of American nuclear stockpiles an official source said.

The U.S. move was disclosed as the NATO allies meeting behind closed doors reportedly adopted a new nuclear policy calling on alliance members to work out guide lines on how and when atomic tactical weapons should be used in event of a Soviet attack.

NATO's foreign and defense ministers had been seeking agreement on a proposed policy for resort to nuclear arms in case of Red attack that would still give President Kennedy the final decision.

The plan was contained in a report read by NATO Secretary-General Dirk U. Stikker.

Sources said Italian and French representatives expressed reservations on Stikker's report, but diplomatically avoided any action that would obstruct implementation of the policy.

As a result — informed sources said—the NATO Permanent Council, which meets in Paris, will handle the information exchange while military representatives of the NATO members work out the guide lines.

Stikker's report provided for such a procedure. After a brief discussion, the ministers agreed to this procedure—in effect adopting the new nuclear policy.

France reportedly has reservations about the nuclear policy because it will not go as far as President Charles de Gaulle would like. It does not change Kennedy's right to veto the use of nuclear weapons, something the French reportedly would like to see changed.

The idea of the guide lines is to work out the conditions under which nuclear tactical weapons might be used in war. These conditions would guide field commanders in determining when to apply to the President of the United States for permission to use such weapons.

A purpose of unified policy on guide lines is to give all NATO members a sense of participating in crucial nuclear decisions. West Germany has especially wanted more say on nuclear matters—even a nuclear strike force under a NATO commander.

But the United States and their members are not prepared for the creation of such a supranational nuclear force, which would in effect put nuclear arms in West German hands.

An atomic mortar for front-line troops is expected to be assigned to U.S. troops in West Germany soon. The Army's Davy Crockett is now in the American forces.

Sources said each of the five U.S. infantry divisions in Germany likely would mount about

U.S. Divorce Data Revealed

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—About one in every 14 American women either was divorced or separated from her husband at the time of the 1960 census, a federal statistician reported today.

The best record for togetherness was on the farm, and the suburbs ranked next.

An analysis of 1960 marital data was made public here by Dr. Paul C. Glick, chief of the social statistics branch of the Census Bureau, in a paper prepared for the annual meeting of the Population Association of America.

Among all women who either were or had been married in 1960, 43 per 1,000 were divorced and 31 per 1,000 were separated. The total marriage disruption ratio for women thus was 74 per 1,000.

Corn Stands Improved by Seed Treating

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent, Agriculture

Treating corn seed with a fungicide insures better stands and healthier seedlings. County Agent George Hamrick pointed out today.

As corn planting dates are moved up toward early May or even late April in Southern Ohio seed treatment with proven chemicals becomes increasingly important, he said.

Our soils contain many fungi and bacteria which attack corn seeds, causing seed rots and seedling blight. Additional organisms are carried on the corn grains themselves.

Seed treatment with the right fungicide kills these organisms allowing the young corn plants to get off to a healthy, earlier start, the agent continued.

TESTS throughout the Midwest have shown repeatedly that captan and thiram are two of the best fungicides for corn seed treatment. These two materials can be bought under one of several trade names.

Farmers should be sure to get a formulation prepared especially for seed treatment. Other formulations are less effective.

It is suggested that farmers check the tag when buying seed to see whether it has been treated and with what. It may pay to retreat, particularly when plantings are made early.

SOUND MANAGEMENT based on record-keeping improvement programs, can lead to profitable dairying. Records help dairymen cull low-producing cows, feed each animal according to production, and select the best stock for breeding herd replacements.

BEGINNING July 1 the U. S. Department of Agriculture will offer the livestock and meat industry a system of grading beef which would provide two separate grade identifications of beef carcasses.

THE U. S. Department of Agriculture reports that corn borer destroyed 65 million bushels of corn last year, costing the American farmer $69 million.

TWO NEW flax varieties, one with improved oil content and the other capable of good yields whether sown early or late, have been developed in federal-state research, the U. S. Department of Agriculture reports.

TOMATO, pepper, eggplant and sweet potato plants should not be set out until the soil has started to warm and the danger of frost is past.

Homemaker News

The barbecue season is nearly here. It's time to clean up the grill and get ready to eat barbecue chicken or juicy charcoal steak. To cook successfully outdoors calls for as much planning and careful preparation as cooking in a kitchen.

The outdoor cook has a wide choice of barbecue tools, gadgets, utensils and larger equipment to make barbecuing fun and easy.

Careful planning and preparation means that much work is done ahead of time. Semi-prepared dishes can be finished at the back of a large outdoor grill or carried ready-to-serve from the kitchen at the last moment.

THE KIND of equipment you have may determine the variety of food preparations on the menu.

Whatever fuel you use — charcoal lumps, briquettes, or wood — allow one hour for coals to form. When wood or charcoal is gray in color and gives off a ruddy glow start cooking.

Keep a well built-up bed of coals near the front or at one end of the grill for cooking meats. Use the remaining portion of the grill for warming other foods, making sauces and cooking vegetables.

A shallow bed of coals is adequate for chops and hamburgers. A deep bed is necessary for roasts and thick steaks.

Should the fire need freshening during cooking, place new fuel around the edges and push the entire bed of coals toward the center. Never add new fuel near the center of the fire.

After meat has cooked for a while, drops of fat will fall into the fire, making it flare up and setting the meat on fire. These flames can be doused with a whisk broom dipped in water, or a clothes sprinkler. Keep one or the other handy as well as a bucket of water or sand.

Baking soda also acts as a fire extinguisher, as does salt, which makes it easier to salvage the food.

Bad Checks Flood State Treasurer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Treasurer Joseph T. Ferguson reports that in the past four months his office has received more than $500,000 in bad checks.

Ferguson said checks are from both individuals and business establishments. He noted that since many of the checks are for the payment of sales tax it apparently means some merchants are misusing monies due the state.

When a bad check is received, the treasurer said, the state agency that deposited the check into the Ohio treasury is notified and is responsible for trying to procure the proper amount owed the state.

If restitution is impossible, the claim then is certified to the attorney general for collection.

High Speed Planting May Mean Kernel Drop Reduction

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent,
High speed corn planting causes reduced seed drop and lower stands even though proper plates are used.
Combinations of high planting speed, thick planting rates, and incorrect seed plates frequently decrease the seed drop to below 60 per cent of the planter manual setting. Farmers can accurately determine whether the stand losses are occurring before or after the corn emerges.

On 100 plot locations in the Miami County demonstration program during 1959 and 1960, farmers had a harvest stand of about 25 per cent below the planter setting. The farmers set their corn planters for a 7" seed spacing in 40" rows, driving at about five mph or less, using the seed plates recommended for the seed lot planted.

The planter setting for this spacing was 22,400 kernels per acre. Stand counts in these plots shortly after emergence showed an average stand of 18,600 plants per acre or 17 per cent less than the planter setting.
The harvest stands averaged 16,800 plants or 25 per cent less than the planter setting. Most of the 17 per cent loss is due to the failure of the kernels to drop and only a small portion due to germination.

Periods of Termite Swarming Now at Hand in This Area

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent,
Agricuture
This is the time of year that termites swarm and then are noticed by the home owner. The months of April, May, and June are the most favorable to termite swarming.

This activity is actually a process of the termite in establishing new colonies. The home owner will not see the swarm but will notice the wings of these termites left on the ground or even on the floors of homes. The notice of this wing loss is positive identification of the termite.

The termite is often confused with flying ants and they are very similar. However, on close observation, they can be identified.

The termite has two pairs of wings, all of equal length, that extend far back of the body proper. The flying ant also has two pairs of wings, one pair extends far back of the body and the other extends only to the end of the body proper.

The flying ants have a conspicuous "wasp waist." The termite on the other hand is straight sided.

SWARMING should serve to warn home owners of termite infestation and immediate control practices should begin. The actual damage of the termite may go completely unnoticed until timbers or boards collapse.

Termite control measures can become quite a job, taking a lot of hard labor and time. Barriers must be established around foundations, containing insecticides.

Ohio Solon Raps Spending In the Congo

WASHINGTON (AP)—Southerners seemed confident today that they had enough votes to avoid a Senate showdown on a bill designed to prevent racial discrimination in voter literacy tests.

They carried on their marathon debate against the measure which they contend would be unconstitutional. The bill would exempt any citizen with a sixth-grade education from having to pass a state literacy test to vote in a federal election.

The showdown will come Wednesday. The two Senate leaders, Democrat Mike Mansfield of Montana and Republican Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, have moved to clamp a filibuster-ending time limit on further talk then.

Dirksen said it would be sheer speculation to forecast whether they can muster a two-thirds majority needed to invoke the time limit, known as cloture.

He told reporters he has been making a partisan appeal to Republican members that the bill had the support of the 1960 GOP national platform.

But Sen. Lister Hill, D-Ala., said in a separate interview he thinks the Southerners have enough votes to block cloture.

Chlordane and dieldrin are the most common insecticides used.

If termite swarming is noticed the home owners should begin a search for damaged or infested wood. If time is available he can then begin his control practices. In many cases it may be wise to contact a reliable exterminator.

Recommended termite control practices, diagram showing insecticide placement, etc. are all available in bulletin form from the County Extension office, 139 1/2 E. Main St., or by calling GR 4-5828.

Insect Alerts

Insects Attacking Ornamentals:
Many gall formers, including maple bladder gall mites, can be best controlled by a spray of malathion as the leaves unfold. Only recently transplanted trees are likely to benefit.

In spite of the looks, gall insects do not do much damage. Now is the time to hand-pick and destroy bagworm cases from shrubbery before the eggs inside hatch (June).

Check Scotch pine and other pine for crooked, dead buds infested by European pine shoot moth. Break off and destroy before the caterpillars break dormancy and start further damage in early May.

European pine sawflies will become active in late April. They can be destroyed with DDT, methoxychlor, chlordane or other residual insecticides.

Clothes Moths and Carpet Beetles:
Winter woolens will go into storage soon. The use of moth-balls, or moth flakes is effective in tight chests or tight boxes.

An important control measure is to store clean clothes, as soiled clothes are much more likely to be attacked.

THE ROTATING speed of the seed corn plate is a most important factor in the accuracy of the seed cell fill. High rpm of the seed plate doesn't allow sufficient time for the kernels to properly fit into the cells.

Two factors affect the rpm of the seed plates. Increasing the planting speed and/or increasing the planting rate will increase the rpm of the seed plate.

The rpm of the seed plate increases nearly four times when both planting speed and planting rate are increased at the same time, for example, from increasing from 12,000 kernels at 3 mph to 20,000 at 7 mph when 16-cell seed plates are used. This high speed means that 16 kernels are expected to drop out of the seed corn plates during each revolution.

Very careful selection of the seed corn plate is necessary if we expect the corn planter to do an accurate job of planting when we are attempting to drop 16 kernels per second.

This problem of low seed drop in high speed planting can be partially remedied by using 24-cell seed plates. The rpm of the 24-cell plates at any speed rate is approximately 33 per cent less than the rpm of the 16-cell plates.

The lower speed gives more time for the kernels to drop into the cells which helps to increase the cell fill accuracy.

EACH YEAR in Ohio, many acres of corn are fertilized adequately for high yields and planted for an intended harvest stands of 16,000 - 18,000 plants per acre. Stands far below this are common at harvest time.

Maximum efficiency of the fertility and other management efforts cannot be obtained with low plant populations. Careful selection of the seed corn plates and a planting speed which will insure a accuracy of seed drop will increase corn profits.

High Speed Planting May Mean Kernel Drop Reduction

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent,
Agriculture

High-speed corn planting causes reduced seed drop and lower stands even though proper plates are used.

Combinations of high planting speed, thick planting rates, and incorrect seed plates frequently decrease the seed drop to below 60 per cent of the planter manual setting. Farmers can accurately determine whether the stand losses are occurring before or after the corn emerges.

On 100 plot locations in the Miami County demonstration program during 1959 and 1960, farmers had a harvest stand of about 25 per cent below the planter setting. The farmers set their corn planters for a 7" seed spacing in 40" rows, driving at about five mph or less, using the seed plates recommended for the seed lot planted.

The planter setting for this spacing was 22,400 kernels per acre. Stand counts in these plots shortly after emergence showed an average stand of 18,600 plants per acre or 17 per cent less than the planter setting.

Periods of Termite Swarming Now at Hand in This Area

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent,
Agriculture

This is the time of year that termites swarm and then are noticed by the home owner. The months of April, May, and June are the most favorable to termite swarming.

This activity is actually a process of the termite in establishing new colonies. The home owner may not see the swarm but will notice the wings of these termites left on the ground or even on the floors of homes. The notice of this wing loss is positive identification of the termite.

The termite is often confused with flying ants and they are very similar. However, on close observation, they can be identified.

The termite has two pairs of wings, all of equal length, that extend far back of the body proper. The flying ant also has two pairs of wings, one pair extends far back of the body and the other extends only to the end of the body proper.

The flying ants have a conspicuous "wasp waist." The termite on the other hand is straight sided.

SWARMING should serve to warn home owners of termite infestation and immediate control practices should begin. The actual damage of the termite may go completely unnoticed until timbers or boards collapse.

Termite control measures can become quite a job, taking a lot of hard labor and time. Barriers must be established around foundations, containing insecticides.

Ohio Solon Raps Spending In the Congo

WASHINGTON (AP)—Southerners seemed confident today that they had enough votes to avoid a Senate showdown on a bill designed to prevent racial discrimination in voter literacy tests.

They carried on their marathon debate against the measure which they contend would be unconstitutional. The bill would exempt any citizen with a sixth-grade education from having to pass a state literacy test to vote in a federal election.

The showdown will come Wednesday. The two Senate leaders, Democrat Mike Mansfield of Montana and Republican Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, have moved to clamp a filibuster-ending time limit on further talk then.

Dirksen said it would be sheer speculation, to forecast whether they can muster a two-thirds majority needed to invoke the time limit, known as cloture.

He told reporters he has been making a partisan appeal to Republican members that the bill had the support of the 1960 GOP national platform.

But Sen. Lister Hill, D-Ala., said in a separate interview he thinks the Southerners have enough votes to block cloture.

Chlordane and dieldrin are the most common insecticides used. If termite swarming is noticed the home owners should begin a search for damaged or infested wood. If time is available he can then begin his control practices. In many cases it may be wise to contact a reliable exterminator.

Recommended termite control practices, diagram showing insecticide placement, etc. are all available in bulletin form from the County Extension office, 159 1/2 E. Main St., or by calling GR 4-5828.

Insect Alerts

Insects Attacking Ornamentals:
Many gall formers, including maple bladder gall mites, can be best controlled by a spray of malathion as the leaves unfold. Only recently transplanted trees are likely to benefit.

In spite of the looks, gall insects do not do much damage. Now is the time to hand-pick and destroy bagworm cases from shrubbery before the eggs inside hatch (June).

Check Scotch pine and other pine for crooked, dead buds infested by European pine shoot moth. Break off and destroy before the caterpillars break dormancy and start further damage in early May.

European pine sawflies will become active in late April. They can be destroyed with DDT, methoxychlor, chlordane or other residual insecticides.

Clothes Moths and Carpet Beetles:
Winter woollens will go into storage soon. The use of moth-balls, or moth flakes is effective in tight chests or tight boxes.

An important control measure is to store clean clothes, as soiled clothes are much more likely to be attacked.

THE ROTATING speed of the seed corn plate is a most important factor in the accuracy of the seed cell fill. High rpm of the seed plate doesn't allow sufficient time for the kernels to properly fit into the cells.

Two factors affect the rpm of the seed plates. Increasing the planting speed and/or increasing the planting rate will increase the rpm of the seed plate.

The rpm of the seed plate increases nearly four times when both planting speed and planting rate are increased at the same time, for example, from increasing from 12,000 kernels at 3 mph to 20,000 at 7 mph when 16-cell seed plates are used. This high speed means that 16 kernels are expected to drop out of the seed corn plates during each revolution.

Very careful selection of the seed corn plate is necessary if we expect the corn planter to do an accurate job of planting when we are attempting to drop 16 kernels per second.

This problem of low seed drop in high speed planting can be partially remedied by using 24-cell seed plates. The rpm of the 24-cell plates at any speed rate is approximately 33 per cent less than the rpm of the 16-cell plates.

The lower speed gives more time for the kernels to drop into the cells which helps to increase the cell fill accuracy.

EACH YEAR in Ohio, many acres of corn are fertilized adequately for high yields and planted for an intended harvest stands of 16,000 - 18,000 plants per acre. Stands far below this are common at harvest time.

Maximum efficiency of the fertility and other management efforts cannot be obtained with low plant populations. Careful selection of the seed corn plates and a planting speed which will insure a c c u r a c y of seed drop will increase corn profits.

New Battery Concept Awaited

An accidental breakthrough in battery concept could result in a comeback for electric automobiles, E. W. Hill, an official of the Canadian Westinghouse Co., told the Toronto Electric Club. Batteries of 10 times the power-to-weight ratio of the best now available will be necessary before the electric car can be a strong contender for the mass market, he said.

Only last summer, the possibilities of solar energy were demonstrated in London, England, where a 1912 electric brougham was driven around Festival Hall. The sun obligingly shone that day and energized 10,000 silicon cells in a panel mounted on the roof.

The cells were wired together in a circuit to charge the batteries which powered the vehicle. Someone suggested during the demonstration that a more sensible idea for the British Isles would be a machine that worked on rain.

Well-behaved vehicles powered by gasoline leave little to be desired. But some of them have been so abused, neglected or souped-up that the noise and odor disgorged from their exhausts make some streets no longer pleasant places to live on or walk along.

This is a ridiculous situation considered against the vast technological strides made in other fields. If the electric breakthrough finally broke through, and quietness became selling points for battery-driven cars, there would be quick steps taken by others to meet the competitive threat.

Or, human nature being what it is, would some inventive genius have to develop a noise and odor attachment for electric vehicles lest people be driven mad by the strange tranquillity?

Unrest in Canada

From a roving reporter of the Guardian of Manchester, England, comes a report that the idea of separatism has caught fire in French Canada. He says the French Canadians of Quebec are talking seriously about breaking away from English-speaking Canada.

One minister in the Quebec provincial government is quoted as saying: "If Gabon, why not us? If Senegal can break away from Mali, why can't we get a divorce from Canada? Nobody is ever ready for independence, but do you think we cannot do better than the Congo?"

The Quebec official has a point. But of course it is not a serious effort. The French

Canadians are merely trying to focus attention on what they believe is stepchild treatment of their province.

Especially do the French Canadians want greater recognition of their language and cultural heritage. And since they number five million to the 13 million English-speaking Canadians they might have a chance of success. But this washes away when the Quebecans look southward and see 186 million more English-speaking Americans who seem about to swallow up Canada economically, culturally and in every other way — both French and English.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:

Many opinions, both pro and con, by dedicated people have been written and said about the Westfall School bond issue. For me to try to amplify these opinions would be silly.

It seems to me, however, that now is the time to stand up and be counted.

I dislike to pay taxes, especially additional ones, as much as anyone I know. In this age of rockets, jets, and diesel engines everyone, be he scientist, farmer, or housewife, must have an education.

The fact that real estate bears the burden will eventually be changed, but the present children in our district cannot wait for that.

The education which we of the older generation received was adequate for our time. Now the modern child must have a different kind of an education in order to cope with the world in which he is forced to live. The isolation of our country which brought us protection is over and the present generation and those to come must compete with the whole world.

Let us give serious attention to the needs of these children and vote for THEM on Tuesday.

like this: "We would support the levy if..." "If" has only two little letters but, "if" is a mighty big word sometimes.

These brainwashers are saying that the grade schools do not need another elementary teacher. If you are in doubt, visit your grade school, or ask your child or your neighbors' child just what the principal does all day long.

This is what our Principal does. He teaches all day long, is athletic coach, and takes care of school reports. What happens if a salesman comes, or a parent working nights wishes to discuss a personal problem with the principal? He has to leave the class unattended and untaught. Now when your teacher left the room during your school days what did you do? I'll bet you didn't study.

Should we have another teacher it would relieve the principal part of the day to really do his work well. A person can do just so many things and do them well.

Should we get this teacher, he would also help the children who are not able to grasp reading immediately by having special reading classes for the lower elementary grades. If a child can not read, he will never accomplish all that he should in grade school, and as he goes on to high school things become harder to understand. A child who cannot read cannot spell. So what's left? Bad grades and just getting by.

Think and then ask yourself, who am I hurting if I vote no? Maybe not yourself directly but indirectly, yes, you are. These children are our future.

Before I stop, I would like to make a comparison. Many say taxes are too high or taxes are eating us up. Let's use this comparison since this is a rural district:

In 1950 a Ford Tractor and Plow cost $1,500. Today the tractor outfit in comparable size would be $2,200. In 12 years this is an increase of $700 or 47 per cent.

Have taxes for school purposes increased this much during the last 12 years? We all complain about the prices of cars, farm equipment, household equipment and clothes, but yet we go ahead and buy them. Maybe all these things aren't absolutely necessary at the time, but we purchase anyway.

Dear Logan Elm Voters

As most know by now, there is a new operating levy of two mills coming up for vote May 8, for our Logan Elm School District.

As responsible citizens of the United States we owe it to the children of this district to support this levy with all we have.

Now you ask why? There are so many reasons that I could go on all night, but I won't.

You say you own land and it isn't fair for land owners to have to pay all the taxes while some parents with a houseful of children get off free. I too feel this way to some extent. We pay taxes. However, those of us whom God has entrusted with the opportunity of ownership and good common sense are to "watch out for our brother." By trying to educate this houseful of children properly, we will be encouraging them to take more responsibility.

How can we encourage these children? By having good responsible teachers with no financial worries. How do we get these teachers? More money.

You yourself want more money to help your family. Why shouldn't a teacher be allowed to feel the same way?

Do you know that our district is below all county teachers' salaries except one? Did you ever stop to think that teachers are forced to move on for financial reasons?

Now I'd like to say something about a few people I shall call "Brainwashers." Have you talked with any of them? I have, and to my knowledge some of them have never supported a school levy.

Their comments go something

We have given our high school students a new building, now let's give them and our elementary students a little more so they may have another teacher and a new bus or two.

Let's all forget our little gripes and personal grudges. Let's all get together, stay together and vote "yes" on Tuesday.

A LOGAN ELM MOTHER

To Westfall Voters:

You have a tremendous responsibility! In the election May 8 you will be making a million-dollar decision.

You will not be deciding whether or not to spend this much money. Rather, how to spend it over the next 23 years. For spend it we must — that decision has been made for us.

The four high schools of our Westfall District are scheduled to lose their charters and be closed in June 1963. They fail to meet the minimum standards required by the Ohio State Board of Education.

We, as citizens, are given a choice between (1) building a new centralized high school or (2) sending our 400 high school boys and girls to schools in surrounding districts, paying their tuition.

Either we build with our tax money and see the school operated by our own elected board, or we spend our tax money for the tuition of our high school pupils in adjoining school districts in whose operation we have no voice. A vote for the bond issue will keep Westfall children and money in the Westfall District.

Taxes will be required to support education whether pupils attend their own school or one in a neighboring town. It is reliably estimated that the amount of tuition paid (plus added transportation costs and loss of state money) in 23 years would exceed the total cost of the proposed bond issue for a new school, both principal and interest.

Paying tuition must be thought of as being much like paying rent, continuing until we terminate it by building our own high school.

"Pay your money and take your choice" — rent or build. We urge you to consider all the implications. Your responsibility to your community and your country is great.

Girls! Train for marriage and a career at the same time! Study nursing!

In the basic course, you learn everything from handling premature babies to tackling problems of the aged. Food preparation, child care, first aid and bedside nursing are covered, too. You'll learn about the emotional needs of the well and the sick and how to give tender, loving care to patients.

It's perfect training for marriage and a family — and it's a profession you can always come back to!

You can choose from many nursing careers.

Hospital Nursing: Help attending doctors, interns and medical students care for the sick. Among other duties, you may plan each patient's day, control electronic heart stimulators, regulate transfusions and give soothing back rubs.

Specialize! Help with the miracle of birth. Soothe the mentally ill. Cheer up bed-ridden children. Assist at operations.

Private Duty: Care for one seriously ill patient and watch him bounce back.

Office Nursing: You'll seem like a member of the family to the doctor's regular patients. You'll be able to soothe any hysterical caller when the doctor can't be reached.

Industrial Nursing: At home or abroad, help prevent illness and accidents. Give first aid when necessary.

Public Health Nursing: Treat the chronically ill at home. Organize baby clinics. Be a school nurse.

Train, treat, travel! You can relieve suffering anywhere — and have fun, too.

For a nurse, every coffee break can contain more human interest than the scripts for Ben Casey and Dr. Kildare put together. And don't forget those hospital parties too!

How will you take your training? A two-year junior college course and an Associate in Arts degree? Three years' hospital training and a diploma in nursing? A four-year college course with a Bachelor of Science degree? All qualify you to take State Boards for that R. N. title.

Amish Group May Flee U.S. 'Persecution'

NEW CASTLE, Pa. (AP)—The leader of an Amish community says the group is thinking about moving to Australia to escape what he calls "religious persecution" in the United States.

Amish Bishop Andy M. Byler of nearby New Wilmington said that the Amish have been invited to resettle in Australia along with some Ohio Amish who recently moved to Canada because of a dispute over compulsory public school education.

The Amish repeatedly have clashed with the government over compulsory public education and the payment of Social Security taxes.

The "Old Order" Amish claim that Social Security is a form of insurance, and they oppose insurance on the grounds that the Bible teaches each household to provide for its own.

Byler said it wouldn't be easy for the Amish to leave the New Wilmington area where they have been settled for a century. But he said they would leave unless the government exempts them from paying Social Security taxes.

A Tragic Letter

Leo S. Jacoby, of New York, writes to me in two inks, blue and red. The letter is supposed to be funny. If it amuses you, please laugh. It does not amuse me. This is the letter:

"I am opposed to all subversive elements in the United States.

"The Republican party is trying to overthrow the present government by force (of dollars) and violence (of words).

"Why do we allow this subversive element to exist?"

Perhaps the name is a pseudonym. I am rising to the occasion because, I assume, the writer of the letter may truly believe that roubles are superior to dollars and a prison sentence for holding an opinion is superior to freedom of speech and of the press.

There are such people in this sad world. They prefer to live in the United States because it is comfortable here and they can be Communists or anti-Communists or dance the twist or even be Nazis here with impunity and the only peril they face is that someone will regard them as idiots or dopes or exhibitionists or anything you please.

It is like the horrible mail I get from something called the National Renaissance Party, 10 West 90 Street, New York 24, N. Y., which has, as a masthead, a bolt of lightning in a circle. The title of the circular is "Mass Meeting To Oppose Jewish Leadership Of The Conservative Movement."

That too is funny because when anti-Communism was unpopular, the overt activists in such a movement included many Jews. Now that the word, conservatism, has become more popular and even profitable, many opportunists rush in. The National Renaissance Party circular reads in its first paragraph:

"While all major Jewish organizations in the United States, inclusive of the Jewish War Veterans, the American Jewish Committee, the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith, and various Zionist groups, have viciously smeared and denounced the rebirth of American nationalism as embodied in the Conservative Movement, many Jewish intellectuals, some with former Communist records, have been ordered to infiltrate and capture key positions of leadership within the conservative hierarchy. These phoney Jewish conservatives want to divert public attention from internal subversion and focus national opinion on the activities of foreign Communist governments in Cuba, Soviet Russia, and Red China..."

One would pay no attention to such nonsense were it not that Conservatism in the United States is damaged by such gibberish. In a free society, men of all faiths tend to join organizations of all types. The American Conservative position, politically and economically, may be traced back to Alexander Hamilton and his associates in the Federalist Party just as modern Conservatism in Great Britain may be traced back to Benjamin Disraeli.

Conservatism has nothing to do with hate or with an itinerant personality earning a living. It is a conception of life growing out of historic memory. Most people in the United States are guided by what might be called 19th Century Liberalism, namely, by the ideal of an expansion of human rights, liberties, and mutual aids. In the 20th Century, this concept of life, rich in humanistic literature, is Conservatism.

The circular before me is aimed at stimulating racial hatred. Take this paragraph:

"Are you aware that every effort is being made by Jewish 'Conservatives' like Barry Goldwater, Roy Cohn, Dr. Fred Schwarz, an Australian Jew who grosses over one million dollars per year through his 'Christian Anti-Communist Crusade,' George Sokolsky, and Marvin Liebman, to discredit and undermine such Gentile patriots as Major General Edwin Walker and Robert Welch of the John Birch Society?"

The absurdity of this statement is apparent on its face. Senator Barry Goldwater, strong of faith, has done more than any man alive to give to Conservatism form and vitality in this country. I have never known Roy Cohn to express a view of either General Walker or Robert Welch. He is apparently too busy. Dr. Fred Schwarz is a Baptist of Jewish parentage who claims his father was converted to Christianity in England. By the circular's analogy it might be said that St. Paul must be denied because his name was originally Saul.

I have been in overt opposition to Communism since 1917 and have my writing to prove it. I do not need to apologize to anyone. Marvin Liebman is a young man who has devoted himself to anti-Communist causes in recent years. To my knowledge, he has done this at considerable personal and discouraging sacrifice.

New Battery Concept Awaited

An accidental breakthrough in battery concept could result in a comeback for electric automobiles, E. W. Hill, an official of the Canadian Westinghouse Co., told the Toronto Electric Club. Batteries of 10 times the power-to-weight ratio of the best now available will be necessary before the electric car can be a strong contender for the mass market, he said.

Only last summer, the possibilities of solar energy were demonstrated in London, England, where a 1912 electric brougham was driven around Festival Hall. The sun obligingly shone that day and energized 10,000 silicon cells in a panel mounted on the roof.

The cells were wired together in a circuit to charge the batteries which powered the vehicle. Someone suggested during the demonstration that a more sensible idea for the British Isles would be a machine that worked on rain.

Well-behaved vehicles powered by gasoline leave little to be desired. But some of them have been so abused, neglected or souped-up that the noise and odor disgorged from their exhausts make some streets no longer pleasant places to live on or walk along.

This is a ridiculous situation considered against the vast technological strides made in other fields. If the electric breakthrough finally broke through, and quietness became selling points for battery-driven cars, there would be quick steps taken by others to meet the competitive threat.

Or, human nature being what it is, would some inventive genius have to develop a noise and odor attachment for electric vehicles lest people be driven mad by the strange tranquillity?

Unrest in Canada

From a roving reporter of the Guardian of Manchester, England, comes a report that the idea of separatism has caught fire in French Canada. He says the French Canadians of Quebec are talking seriously about breaking away from English-speaking Canada.

One minister in the Quebec provincial government is quoted as saying: "If Gabon, why not us? If Senegal can break away from Mali, why can't we get a divorce from Canada? Nobody is ever ready for independence, but do you think we cannot do better than the Congo?"

The Quebec official has a point. But of course it is not a serious effort. The French

Canadians are merely trying to focus attention on what they believe is stepchild treatment of their province.

Especially do the French Canadians want greater recognition of their language and cultural heritage. And since they number five million to the 13 million English-speaking Canadians they might have a chance of success. But this washes away when the Quebecans look southward and see 186 million more English-speaking Americans who seem about to swallow up Canada economically, culturally and in every other way — both French and English.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:

Many opinions, both pro and con, by dedicated people have been written and said about the Westfall School bond issue. For me to try to amplify these opinions would be silly.

It seems to me, however, that now is the time to stand up and be counted.

I dislike to pay taxes, especially additional ones, as much as anyone I know. In this age of rockets, jets, and diesel engines everyone, be he scientist, farmer, or housewife, must have an education.

The fact that real estate bears the burden will eventually be changed, but the present children in our district cannot wait for that.

The education which we of the older generation received was adequate for our time. Now the modern child must have a different kind of an education in order to cope with the world in which he is forced to live. The isolation of our country which brought us protection is over and the present generation and those to come must compete with the whole world.

Let us give serious attention to the needs of these children and vote for THEM on Tuesday.

JOHN, H. DUNLAP JR.

Dear Logan Elm Voters

As most know by now, there is a new operating levy of two mills coming up for vote May 8, for our Logan Elm School District.

As responsible citizens of the United States we owe it to the children of this district to support this levy with all we have.

Now you ask why? There are so many reasons that I could go on all night, but I won't.

You say you own land and it isn't fair for land owners to have to pay all the taxes while some parents with a houseful of children get off free. I too feel this way to some extent. We pay taxes.

Guess Who Will Get 'F' For Effort

LIMA, Ohio (AP) — Three months ago a sophomore student, Bill Brunk of Bath High School just outside Lima, was given a biology assignment.

His job: To assemble the skeleton of a monkey. Hundreds of bones, large and small, had to be put together.

Working with a fellow student and a college biology textbook, the ingenious sophomore meticulously went to work. At first it went slowly, then things started falling into place.

Finally, after weeks of work, every bone was in place, the skeleton was placed on a large board and the masterpiece was gingerly placed in the family car.

Then Mrs. Brunk took the back roads at around 20 miles an hour, gasping at every hard bump. The skeleton made the trip unscathed and when the amazed biology teacher saw the work he suggested showing it to the superintendent.

The instructor carefully picked up the board and headed for the front office, then handed it to the superintendent's secretary. She dropped it.

ALLEN BRANDT

PHIL SEITZ

OSU Students Are Assigned To Pickaway

Two apprentice trainees from Ohio State University have arrived in Circleville to work with the Pickaway County Agriculture Extension office for the next several weeks.

The two trainees are Phil Seitz of Ottawa in Putnam County and Allen Brandt of Darke County. Both will be graduated at Ohio State in June with bachelor of science in agriculture degrees.

A half quarter of their college work is spent in extension training and another half as student teachers in vocational agriculture. Seitz is a graduate of Ottawa Public High School. He is a member of Alpha Gamma Sigma Fraternity at Ohio State and participates in the university's 4-H program.

THE Putnam County native is married and the father of one daughter. He will be graduated at OSU June 8.

He has 11 years of 4-H experience. Brandt is a graduate of Versailles High School in Darke County and also will be graduated from OSU in June. He is a member of Alpha Gamma Sigma Fraternity and the Townshend Agricultural Society.

He plans to teach or enter agriculture extension work after graduation.

Brandt spent the first half of the present school quarter at Elm Valley High School north of Columbus in apprentice teaching of vocational agriculture. Seitz's first half quarter was at Seitz's Valley School in Delaware County.

Ex-Veterans Aide Held for Forgery

UPPER SANDUSKY, Ohio (AP) — A former Veterans Service officer has been indicted on forgery charges by the Wyandot County Grand Jury in its May session which ends today.

Mrs. Marie Stansberry, 50, was indicted on 94 counts involving some 45 checks from the Soldiers and Sailors Relief Fund which were to go to four Wyandot County families.

Mrs. Stansberry is charged with cashing the checks herself. A state examiner still is checking reports to determine the amount of money involved.

Candidate Helps Stamp Collectors

CLEVELAND (AP) — Francis V. May of Cleveland, candidate for the Republican party nomination as state auditor, is trying to collect the stamp collectors' votes.

Envelopes containing May's campaign literature and addressed to voters in every county in the state were sent in bundles to New Orleans for mailing from there.

When Ohio voters received them this week, the envelopes had the newly issued 150th anniversary stamp commemorating Louisiana statehood and the cancellation read "first day of issue."

Sheriff Probes 26 Accidents During April

The Pickaway County Sheriff's Department investigated 19 accidents and answered 26 complaint reports during April.

Although no fatal crashes were registered here, 16 persons suffered injuries and 26 autos were damaged. Auto and property damage resulted in 10 of the accidents.

The monthly report showed that seven arrests were made during the investigations.

The complaint list included three breaking and entering cases, two thefts, five fires, two domestic investigations, three vandalism and 11 miscellaneous probes.

DiSalle Margin of Victory Due To Be Studied as Index

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A free-swinging fight between Gov. Michael V. DiSalle and Atty. Gen. Mark McElroy for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination enlivened Ohio's primary election campaigns for votes next Tuesday.

Politicians express doubt that McElroy's pounding stretch drive could overcome DiSalle's incumbency advantage.

They looked for the margin of victory, especially in populous Cuyahoga County, to indicate the winner's chances against state Auditor James A. Rhodes, the likely Republican nominee, in the Nov. 6 general election.

Secretary of State Ted W. Brown has predicted that only about one-fifth of the state's 6.5 million potential voters will pick winners from 1,427 candidates for state, district and local offices and decide local issues.

He forecast that Democrats will outvote Republicans 740,000 to 660,000 because of the interest generated by the DiSalle - McElroy clash.

Elected in the primaries will be members of state and county central committees who run the party organizations. More than 30,000 candidates seek those posts.

A Republican contest of major interest is the four-way race for the U. S. senatorial nomination.

Backers expect John Marshall Briley, Toledo business executive making his first bid for public office, to win the right to oppose Democrat Sen. Frank J. Lausche, former five-term governor, in the November election.

Briley has formidable opposition from Summit County Prosecutor John S. Ballard and state Sens. Charles E. Fry of Springfield and Ross Pepple of Lima. Lausche's Democratic opponents are Albert T. Ball of Cleveland and Raymond W. Beringer of Toledo.

Ohioans also will nominate candidates for a congressman-at-large post for the first time in a decade because the legislature failed to establish a 24th congressional district after Ohio was allotted one more U. S. representative under the 1960 census.

Robert Taft Jr., Ohio House Republican leader and son of the late U. S. Sen. Robert A. Taft of Cincinnati, looks like the winner over state Sen. Lowell Fess of Yellow Springs, son of the late U. S. Sen. Simeon D. Fess, in the GOP race.

Democrats fielded 11 candidates for the congress-at-large post, making the party test a toss-up. Aspirants are: William Baker of Dayton, Richard Bing of North Canton, Russell L. Carter of Dayton, Michael J. Crosser of Cleveland Heights, Norbert G. Dennerl Jr. of Cleveland, John J. Gilligan of Cincinnati, Richard D. Kennedy of Cleveland, George L. Mark of Peninsula, Joseph J. Murphy of Columbus, Robert R. Price of Winterville and Alan F. Reeves of Cleveland.

Only four incumbents have opposition in the 23 congressional district primaries. The only congressman not seeking reelection is Republican Gordon Scherer of Cincinnati. Republican and Democratic candidates bidding to succeed him are unopposed in the primary.

In legislative races, there are 74 candidates for state senate seats and 486 for 137 seats in the Ohio House. Candidates also include 200 for county auditor, 36 for appellate court judge, 122 for common pleas court judge, 373 for county commissioner and six for probate court judge.

A third candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, Alexander G. Metrakos of Cleveland, is expected to get a token vote. He advocated a state lottery in lieu of tax increases.

On the Republican side, William L. White of Mount Vernon is expected to provide only nominal opposition for Rhodes, former Columbus mayor.

Three candidates for elective state offices are assured nomination for lack of opposition.

They are: Lt. Gov. John W. Donahy of Alliance, Democrat Thomas E. Ferguson, son of state Treasurer Joseph T. Ferguson, for his father's office, and Secretary of State Ted W. Brown, Republican incumbent.

Bidding for the Democratic nomination for secretary of state are: Joseph H. Avellone of Highland Heights, Charles L. Babcock of Canton, Mrs. Catherine R. Dobbs of Barberton, Charles G. Tompkins of Warren and Lewis N. Truman of Springfield.

Republicans seeking nomination for state auditor are: Roger W. Tracy of Columbus, James J. Barton of Middleburgh Heights and Richard M. Brown of Chagrin Falls.

Republicans for state treasurer are: Russell Dumford of Lebanon, Ellsworth J. Alheit of Elyria, John D. Herbert of Columbus, Richard B. Kay and Francis V. May, both of Lakewood.

Contests for attorney general nominations attracted strong candidates from both parties. Republicans will choose between William B. Saxbe of Mechanicsburg, who formerly held that post; John A. Lloyd Jr. of Cincinnati and Robert L. Marrs of Hamilton. Democrats have a choice between Mayor Frank P. Celeste of Lakewood, George E. Martin of Ravenna, John P. McDonough of Springfield, Leroy G. Schell of Steubenville and Robert E. Sweetney of Bay Village.

Republicans have six candidates for lieutenant governor and Democrats five for that post. Brown of Medina, William R. Vanaken of Shaker Heights, William T. Weisenborn of Rawson, Charles W. Whalen Jr. of Dayton, Wayne Wilke of Cincinnati and George V. Woodling of Rocky River.

Democrats are: John T. Flanagan of Cleveland, John J. Gallagher of Cleveland, James A. Lantz of Lancaster, Harold L. Milligan of Struthers and James L. Powers of Mansfield.

Candidates are unopposed for nomination to two Ohio Supreme Court seats, but two in each party are vying for a third seat.

Republicans seeking nomination for the term starting Jan. 2 are Willard D. Campbell and Paul M. Herbert, both of Columbus. Democrats are Richard T. Cole of Springfield and John F. McCrystal of Sandusky.

Judge Kingsley A. Taft of Columbus, Republican and incumbent Chief Justice Carl V. Weygandt, Democrat, are candidates for that post.

For the judgeship starting Jan. 1 are incumbent Judge John M. Matthias of Columbus, Republican, and James J. Mayer of Mansfield, Democrat.

Polls open at 6:30 a.m. EST, and close at 6:30 p.m. EST.

40,000 Troops May Be Recalled

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., told the Senate today that defense officials are considering recall of some 40,000 noncombat troops now in Europe. Stennis, chairman of the watchdog Senate Defense Preparedness subcommittee, urged that this be done as a means of curbing the outflow of dollars and improving the combat ratio in U.S. armed forces.

"It is my conviction that well-considered action along these lines would be beneficial in many ways and would result in strengthening both our military and financial posture," Stennis said.

Savings Lost in Old Swindle

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (AP)—A 78-year-old Portsmouth woman, apparent victim of an old confidence game, told police she lost $2,080 in life savings.

Mrs. Anna M. Scott said she was stopped by two women in the downtown area. One woman said she had found $3,600 and was advised by her employer to find two other deserving women and split the money.

Mrs. Scott told police she withdrew the $2,080 from the bank so the woman could show her employer that she (Mrs. Scott) was deserving and frugal. Mrs. Scott said she didn't see either of the women again.

Re-Nominate and Elect Judge Marshall M. Carlisle for Court of Appeals

Dear Loyal Republican Friends:

I so address you because most of you must have voted for me in the 1960 Primary in which I received the nomination, and I sincerely hope that you will make me your next Court of Appeals Judge, since there is no Democrat running. At all times while seeking this office I have used honorable means, and I am doing so this time, and I have had no advice from anyone, except my brother, Fred C. Carlisle, whom many of you know. I believe I am well qualified by the 29 years experience I have had in the administration of law, including being a former Trial Judge in my own County of Jackson; City Solicitor for Jackson, Ohio, and a former Special Assistant Attorney General, as well as trying almost every type of civil and criminal action.

My education was received at Ohio University, the University of Cincinnati, and the Ohio State University. I am married with two daughters and two sons, and live on my hill farm in Jackson County with my family.

My opponent this year, in the fall election of 1960, along with his two so-called Republican Associates then on the Court of Appeals, publicly endorsed and worked for the Kennedy-DiSalle Nominee, contrary to the Code of Judicial Ethics. Do you think this conduct was fair to the Republican Party? Do you think his conduct entitles him to nomination as a Republican?

I am deeply grateful and thankful for the wonderful support you gave me in the 1960 Republican Primary, and sincerely hope that you will see fit to help me again on May 8th.

UPPER SANDUSKY, Ohio (AP) — A former Veterans Service officer has been indicted on forgery charges by the Wyandot County Grand Jury in its May session which ends today.

Mrs. Marie Stansberry, 50, was indicted on 94 counts involving some 45 checks from the Soldiers and Sailors Relief Fund which were to go to four Wyandot County families.

Mrs. Stansberry is charged with cashing the checks herself. A state examiner still is checking reports to determine the amount of money involved.

Candidate Helps Stamp Collectors

CLEVELAND (AP) — Francis V. May of Cleveland, candidate for the Republican party nomination as state auditor, is trying to collect the stamp collectors' votes.

Envelopes containing May's campaign literature and addressed to voters in every county in the state were sent in bundles to New Orleans for mailing from there.

When Ohio voters received them this week, the envelopes had the newly issued 150th anniversary stamp commemorating Louisiana statehood and the cancellation read "first day of issue."

DEAR ABBY: I recently had the privilege of taking a nice young lady to dinner, and was very much surprised when she asked if she could butter my bread. I am a Yankee and his lady was from the South. Is this a Southern custom? YANKEE

DEAR YANKEE: No, it's a universal custom with all young women who know on which side their bread is buttered.

DEAR ABBY: I am a senior in high school and would like your opinion about a ridiculous rule at our school. All the girls must shower together after each gym class. Hearing Slated
On A-Reactor
At Sandusky

WASHINGTON (A) — The Atomic Energy Commission has scheduled a public hearing May 22 on an application to operate an atomic reactor near Sandusky, Ohio, at full capacity.

The commission, however, has stated that the reactor at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Plum Brook research facility could operate without danger to the public at its full rated power level of 60,000 kilowatts.

So far, it has been tested at only 100 kilowatts.

The commission's final decision on the application by NASA will be based on the record of the hearing.

The commission said in an analysis of the Plum Brook facility that the nearest residence is approximately 3,200 feet from the reactor.

"The area surrounding the facility is completely surrounded by dikes which impound surface drainage," the report said.

"A tornado is not expected to damage the reactor or contaminate the structure," it stated, and "if an earthquake should occur it is probable that the damage to the reactor would be negligible."

The report said, "The major hazard would result from release of radioactive gases into the atmosphere." It said the prevailing winds are from the south, southwest and west about 55 per cent of the time—"towards areas of high population density."

Dear Abby:

by Abigail Van Buren

Motivated Design!

DEAR ABBY: I recently had the privilege of taking a nice young lady to dinner, and was very much surprised when she asked if she could butter my bread. I let her do it, since she seemed so sincere in her offer, and must say the world would be much better off, if little courtesies like this were shown more often. I am a Yankee and his lady was from the South. Is this a Southern custom?

YANKEE

DEAR YANKEE: No, it's a universal custom with all young women who know on which side their bread is buttered.

DEAR ABBY: I am a senior in high school and would like your opinion about a ridiculous rule at our school. All the girls must shower together after each gym class. In order to receive credit, you must call the gym teacher over and show her the SOAP on your body! Now I am going to be 18 soon and I know when I have enough soap on me to be clean. If you refuse to follow this rule, you get a "D" in gym and an "Unsatisfactory" in work habits. What do you think of this?

HUMILIATED

DEAR HUMILIATED: I think this "soapy survey" is a dirty trick.

DEAR ABBY: Will you please discontinue your battle against the "nervy, drop-in type visitors." I fell complimented when someone drops in to visit me. I let people know they are always welcome to come to my home, without tele-

Hearing Slated On A-Reactor At Sandusky

WASHINGTON (A) — The Atomic Energy Commission has scheduled a public hearing May 22 on an application to operate an atomic reactor near Sandusky, Ohio, at full capacity.

The commission, however, has stated that the reactor at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Plum Brook research facility could operate without danger to the public at its full rated power level of 60,000 kilowatts.

So far, it has been tested at only 100 kilowatts.

The commission's final decision on the application by NASA will be based on the record of the hearing.

The commission said in an analysis of the Plum Brook facility that the nearest residence is approximately 3,200 feet from the reactor.

"The area surrounding the facility is completely surrounded by dikes which impound surface drainage," the report said.

"A tornado is not expected to damage the reactor or contaminate the structure," it stated, and "if an earthquake should occur it is probable that the damage to the reactor would be negligible."

The report said, "The major hazard would result from release of radioactive gases into the atmosphere." It said the prevailing winds are from the south, southwest and west about 55 per cent of the time—"towards areas of high population density."

Mace Stable Participating At Northfield, Roosevelt

By COL. J. E. GROOM

One of the most prominent stables racing out of Circleville is that of Jim Mace who has already shipped eight head of horses to Roosevelt Raceway.

After taking part in Sunday's local Matinee Jim sent 15 head to Northfield Park which opened yesterday. This group of horses will be under the charge of Jim Arledge and Frank Mace who will handle the driving chores.

Young Arledge is no newcomer in the business, racing with considerable success last year a stable of four head owned by his brother, Harlow, his father, William, and himself. In this group and owned by Jim is the good mare Hazel Mite, 5, by Bud Mite, that started 27 times and was out of the money but once. The record stands at four wins, eight seconds and eight thirds, with a 2:09 mark at Lebanon.

Another is Chalidale Betty, 6, by Custodian, that started 15 times and registered a mark of 2:06 at Lebanon. She was second three times at Lebanon and had three third places and one second at Wheeling Downs.

FOR HIS brother, Harlow, Jim raced the good trotter Dudley's Dandy, 5, by Averill.

Still another in the stable is Hideaway Pat, 4, a pacer by Little Pat W., that started 13 times and finished with three wins, five seconds and five thirds.

This is quite an achievement in that Jim did not move out of amateur driving status until the 1961 spring meeting at Scioto Downs.

William Arledge owns the pacer Mike O'Henry that was lame last year, but has been brought along with care. He is sound now, having worked several miles under 2:30. The horse will remain here for training and will not start until the county fair racing season that begins in July.

Also shipped to Northfield in charge of Arledge is Desert Sands owned by Cooke and Earl Metzger. This fast horse is a 4-year-old pacer by Jerry The First, and with any kind of a break should have a good season.

Desert Sands didn't start until a 3-year-old. He had one win at Scioto Downs and Northfield respectively. Late last year he was a bang-up second in 2:04 at Scioto.

HARLEY and Arthur Mace own the good pacer Virgins First, by Jerry The First, that took a record of 2:05 last year with three wins, six seconds and six thirds.

Also under the Mace brothers ownership is Startena's Demon, 3, by Steamin' Demon, that can really trot in training. This is the horse to watch — he looks and trots like his famous sire.

Arthur Mace owns Stormy Steamin', also by Steamin' Demon, that had been sick early in the season, but is sound now and training well.

Owned by Jim and Mrs. Mace is Cindy Moken, 3, a pacer by Budmire, that trained in 2:16 last year. She won her race in the Matinee and looks like a good prospect for the raceways this year.

Rose Royal, 3, is a pacer by Royal Blackstone that took a mark of 2:11 as a 2-year-old. After three starts in 1961, she was turned out — Mace wanted to bring her along carefully until the 1962 season got under way.

Also in the Mace stable is Ronnie Moken, by Budmire, a 2-year-old pacer that is showing good form, but will not be ready for the raceways until a little later.

OWNED jointly by Mace and William Cole is the 2-year-old trotter Abbie Lou, by Flame Abbe. This one, promising real satisfaction for her owners, probably will start at Northfield.

ROYAL MAGIC AND OWNER — Jim Cole of Spring Valley, O., holds Royal Magic, by Royal Blackstone. This 7-year-old pacer has a record of 2:02 4/5, taken at Scioto Downs. The pacer is trained by Cole, but Jim Mace is the regular driver in most of his races. (Staff Photo)

Jim Mace also has Emily, a 3-year-old trotter by Osborne Hanover, that has never started, but has been training handily in 2:20.

For Mrs. Frances Cloud and son, Mike, Mace has Royal Hetty, a 2-year-old pacer by Royal Blackstone. This is a fast filly and the clouds should see her go under the wire.

All is not well for these owners, however. Their good 4-year-old pacer, Mr. Florican, by Florican, that was one of Mace's coming stars, cut a tendon in training and will be retired for the balance of the season.

Mn. Florican has consistently worked under 2:20. He looked ready to take on the best of them at Northfield.

Honor's Kit, 3, by Honor's Tryax, owned in partnership by Ed (Yock) Strawser and Norman Anderson, was on the trot last year, but has converted to the pace. In doing so, she really found herself.

SHE LOOKS and acts like a good pacer. Because of her owners' popularity and her ability to work in 2:12 if called upon, she no doubt will be watched with more interest than any horse in training here.

For William Cole of Spring Valley, O. Mace has successfully raced the pacing pair of Cole's Hoss and Royal Magic. Cole is one of our most ardent fans and it seems he is in racing strictly for pleasure. However, his Cole's Hoss has earned $10,000, with five wins, nine seconds and five thirds. He has been in the money 22 out of 24 starts.

Royal Magic, 7, and with a mark of 2:02 2-5, circled the Scioto Downs track in 2:03 2-5 early last year, then raced the balance of the season on eastern ovals. He has a lifetime earning of $31,000.

Cole also has in training Fara Lee, 3, by Farvel (brother to Adios), that has never started, and

Kline, Wellington, Weller Lead Circleville Batters

Dick Kline, Tiger first baseman is the leading hitter for the Circleville baseball team, collecting hits in exactly one half of his trips to the plate for a cool .500 batting average.

Kline is also leading in the number of extra base hits with four triples and two doubles. None of the Tigers has been credited with a circuit swat this year.

Jimmie Wellington, Circleville's slick fielding shortstop, is second in the batting average department with a .428. He is credited with two doubles and a triple to take second in the slugging department.

Sam Weller, Circleville's senior hurler, has contributed prowess at the plate, too. He is batting .385 in 13 trips.

George Reeser and Gary Stewart are currently hitting .286 and Freddie Moore owns a .257 average. Rounding out the varsity starters with averages .200 and over are Jack Cook, .200 and Gerald Dade, .231.

Jim Tootle has one hit in four trips to the plate for a .250 average.

In the pitching department Reeser has five wins and no losses to his credit. He has gone the route in three games and has been relieved by Weller twice.

Weller has a 3-2 slate. One of his losses came at Logan when he relieved Dade. It was Dade's only start on the mound.

His other loss was a heartbreaking 1-0 defeat at Pleasant View. He pitched three-hit ball in the game.

Pleasant View's lone run was unearned. A throwing error credited to the Tiger's outfield allowed the score.

The Tigers' record for the season is 8-2. Their losses came at the hands of Logan, a non league encounter, and the 1-0 loss at Pleasant View. Circleville is now in the quarter finals of the class AA Central District tournament.

In the pitching department Reeser has five wins and no losses to his credit. He has gone the route in three games and has been relieved by Weller twice.

Weller has a 3-2 slate. One of his losses came at Logan when he relieved Dade. It was Dade's only start on the mound.

His other loss was a heartbreaking 1-0 defeat at Pleasant View. He pitched three-hit ball in the game.

Pleasant View's lone run was unearned. A throwing error credited to the Tiger's outfield allowed the score.

The Tigers' record for the season is 8-2. Their losses came at the hands of Logan, a non league encounter, and the 1-0 loss at Pleasant View. Circleville is now in the quarter finals of the class AA Central District tournament.

TO THE PEOPLE OF PICKAWAY COUNTY:

I wish to thank you for the way you have received me and the persons who have worked with me on my campaign. Also, my thanks to all those who carried and signed my petitions.

After reading some of the records at the courthouse it would, no doubt, have been easier to be nominated if I had publicized certain facts, however, I chose to work hard to earn the right to represent you.

I am positive the people who know me well have confidence in me and I hope you will, too.

If nominated and elected I will not disappoint you.

Thank You Very Much,

CHARLES H. GLITT

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear daughter, Agnes Andrews, who passed away ten years ago today, May 5th, 1952. Ten sad and lonely years have passed since our great sorrow fell. We still remember well. We mourn for you in silence no eyes can see, we weep but many silent tears are shed, while others are asleep.
More and more each day we miss you, no one can take your place. Above a smile a voice is gone a kind and gentle face. We often all think of you and how suddenly you died. Broncs Field Final Team In Baseball Ashville is fielding its last Bronco baseball team this year. Next year Ashville high school athletics will include in the new Teays Valley High School system.

The Russ Gregg coached Broncos have won the Pickaway County Tournament three consecutive years. Their record of the three-year period is 37-5.

They presently are looking for their third Darby Valley League crown. Their DVL record now stands at 5-1.

The Broncs have lost to West Jefferson, a team which is 4-0 so far in the Darby Valley race.

FOR the year the Bronco nine is 7-1. In the pickaway county tourney they defeated Scioto and Monroe to wrap up honors.

Monday they open central district tourney action at Granville. Last year Ashville was defeated in the tournament by Liberty Union, the eventual state champion.

O'Toole Toils Effectively As Reds Win

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds' Jim O'Toole should be feeling more rested today after his 3-2 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals than he usually does after night games.

The 25-year-old southpaw says pitching under the lights gives him insomnia.

"I usually do not get to sleep until after 3 a.m.," he said after his five-hitter Friday night.

"I relieve the game, going over each pitch and wondering if I had thrown a different one at the time it wouldn't have been better."

O'Toole should not have had much to fret about after winning on fine pitching, flawless support and home runs by Frank Robinson, Leo Cardenas and Vada Pinson as lead-off batters in the second, third and fourth innings.

After Curt Flood led off in the first inning with an infield single, O'Toole turned back 16 batters in a row before issuing a walk.

The Cards scored once in the eighth on a double by Charlie James and Julio Gotay's single. In the ninth, Gene Oliver homered with two out.

Larry Jackson, the loser, and relievers Don Ferrarese and Ed Bauta allowed only five hits.

When Flood beat out a topped ball in the first, it marked the 17th consecutive game in which he has hit safely this year and the 29th in a row, counting the 1961 season.

Ohio State has compiled a 17-7 won-lost mark in post season NCAA basketball tournament play.

15 of the Crocetts, which can hurl a warhead about six miles. The weapon's nuclear warhead carries the blast power of something less than 1,000 tons of TNT. When the Crockett was unveiled two years ago it was said by the Army to "dwarf in firepower anything we have ever known in the immediate area of the battle line."

When the Army's divisions are reorganized, the plan calls for a Davy Crockett mortar platoon in each battalion, with three weapons to a platoon. A division of 16 battalions — the maximum — would have 48 atomic mortars.

Army specialists said the Crockett, operated by two- and three-man teams, would be aimed to blast enemy pillboxes, bunkers, troop masses, artillery positions, tank concentrations, command posts, supply dumps and communications.

It can chew up any of these within 200 to 500 yards of its burst.

Official confirmation that the atomic mortar has been given to the troops came amid reports that President Kennedy will reduce the production of nuclear warheads, chiefly because the United States already has a huge stockpile.
